

Privacy Policy for CallBot

We take the privacy of our customers very seriously with CallBot. The short of it is that we will never under any circumstances sell, share, or give any data in our database to a third party unless absolutely required to do so under a Court Order. No exceptions. Full stop.

Types of Data Collected

We go out of our way to make sure we collect only the minimal amount of data required to provide the service to you as a customer.

The only pieces of data we collect from you which are necessary to provide the service:

1. The IP Address that initiated a request.
2. The phone number requested to be searched.
3. What version of iOS sent the request.

When a phone number is successfully searched by our provider, a name is returned into our database and back to you as a customer.

At this point, no data will ever leave to a third party outside of a hard requirement through a Court Order.
